

The 2019 edition of our intensive training week will be addressed at coaches, teachers, social workers, students and everyone who wishes to use sport as a tool for development. We welcome participants from both athletic and non-athletic backgrounds who share a commitment to play, movement and sporting activities as vehicles for fostering development, participation, community building, inclusion, diversity, social cohesion, and more.

During the course you will learn ...

Through a series of workshops, you will expand your teaching, coaching, and pastoral competences, including sessions focusing on effective pedagogy, inclusive session design, and preparation and planning. Importantly, you will learn to adapt activities to meet individual needs and environments. You will expand your psychological skills, helping you to identify and address your personal and professional development needs, including your potentials, strength and current areas for development.

You will also increase your social skills, enabling you to work in intercultural settings, to serve diverse communities. And you will notice how your own network is growing by interacting with young professionals from all over the world. You will also enrich your capacity to manage your stakeholders successfully, including funding organisations, local authorities, and other active partners.

You will experience opportunities to ...

Who will help you with this?

The week's activities will be led by a team of experts drawn from around the world, experienced in sport for development, as well as education, sport science, social work, and psychology. They will help you to identify your hidden talents, your strengths and weaknesses, and provide you with strategies for on-going development.

Where will you stay?

The Inclusive Development through Sport training week will be based in Rheinsberg, a small historic town north of Berlin. The venue will be a hotel on the lakeside, uniquely equipped to serve the needs of a diverse group. Sessions will take place in the gymnasium and outside in nature which, at this time of the year, may mean snow, rain, sunshine, and temperatures between -10 and +10 °C. So, leave your formal clothes in the closet and make sure you come prepared comfortable for physical activity, sport and play.

www.seehotel-rheinsberg.de

You may want to spend the evenings in the hotel bar talking to colleagues and new friends, in the fireplace room playing games, in the hotel pool, or using the hotel sauna, perhaps finished off with a jump into the lake!

The seminar will start off Sunday night and finish on the following Saturday morning. So you would be able, if you wish, to spend one or even two weekends in Berlin, one of the world's most exciting and culturally rich cities.

How can you sign up?

Simply complete and submit the registration form and the ICSSPE Office staff will get in touch to sort out payment. The inclusive price for training, accommodation and local transport is 390 €.

ICSSPE Executive Office
 Hanns-Braun-Str. 1
 14053 Berlin
 Germany
 Phone: +49 30 311 02 32 10
 Email: assistant@icsspe.org

Partners: Kennesaw State University, USA
 Deutsche Sporthochschule Köln, Germany

This event is supported by the Fürst Donnersmarck-Foundation

Don't forget: You can be the difference that makes the difference!